INLINE SKATING DISCIPLINE

SVS has come up with simple unique and fun ways for kids in school to refresh their minds and body before/after studying.

According to medical research roller skating and in-line skating are in the top three activities that improve and maintain physical fitness and general well-being. The medical world has declared in-line skating better for your health than jogging. In-line skating not only burns 6 calories a minute or 360 an hour but also turn fat into muscle.

" Having fun in a training session in local schools."

JUSTIFICATION OF THE PROPOSED REVIEW

In-line skating is one of the safest sports around, with injury rates lower than any other sport like soccer and cycling. One reason for this is skaters have to wear protective gears which consist of helmet, wrist guards, elbow pads and knee pads.

SVS supports innovative approaches to physical education that support and equip the knowledge and skill to be healthy and physically active for a lifetime. Now in over 300 schools and estates nationwide skating in school is at the forefront of physical education initiatives, boosting youth fitness, self-esteem and the development of life long physical skills and activities.

As your child learns roller skating, he or she develops self-confidence, self-esteem, self-discipline and self-reliance. They also learn how to manage stress, perform under pressure and test emotional and physical balance.

The child also develops social skills with other children and adults. They learn to respect others, to be good at sports as well as how to manage success and disappointments. Learning how to skate is actually quite easy and fun. It requires a little determination, a lot of practice and less fear of falling.
